

Introduction to CAM2P™ Workshop

(Simpler, Better, Faster, More Practical Project Management with the SUKAD™ Model)

Duration/Dates: 1 day; on demand for private clients and for the public at various locations

Special Note: We can also offer this workshop on a complimentary basis to large organizations who are interested in implementing project management solutions in their organizations to enhance performance. Attend this workshop before you decide on training!

Pre-Requisites: None required; designed for those with or without project management experience

Hours/Professional Development Units: 7 contact hours or 7 PDU

Workshop Description

The general conventional wisdom is that many still think of project management to be limited to technology (IT) or construction projects but that is not the case. Project management is useful and highly effective for simple business projects, like HR, Marketing, Finance, and other functions. Project management could be simplified to use in your daily personal and working life. Further, you do not have to be a project manager to benefit from the practicality of project management.

Through this one-day highly interactive workshop, the SUKAD consultants will demonstrate a paradigm shift from the current conventional thinking about project management to a simpler, better, faster, and more practical approach for managing projects that is not normally covered in a typical project management certification training course.

The workshop will start with an explanation on the strategic importance of project management and how it must be a core capability across industries and functions within an organization. The workshop will also discuss the importance of certification but also the limitation of popular certification that might help us add letters to our CV but does not necessarily enhance project management performance or contribute to organizational excellence.

Then we will introduce the SUKAD Model, which we call: the Customizable and Adaptable Methodology for Managing Projects (CAM2P™). Further we will demonstrate how project management, through CAM2P™, is customizable to organizational requirements and adaptable to project type or class.

A substantial part of the workshop will be to group the participants by industry and work with them to on-the-spot and immediate application of the learning where the groups will customize the model to their own industry or application.

Workshop Format

As highlighted in the description, this is a highly interactive workshop.

The first half of the course is a mix of presentations, open and extended group discussions.

The second half would mostly be in groups where the teams will apply what they learn. The SUKAD consultants will be monitoring and supporting the teams. Prior to closure, the teams will present the result of their work for others to learn.

Workshop Designed for/Target Audience

All personnel, project team members, project managers, PMO members and managers, program managers and senior managers who are involved or interested in project management.

This workshop is also a must for senior managers and executives who are considering enhancing their organizations projects' performance.
